If any one element is crucial to setting the appropriate tone and atmosphere for your wedding, it's the music. The music played during your wedding should do more than just entertain; it should evoke the deep emotion of your ceremony. Music With A Message has been the cornerstone for The Lamb Family ensemble which includes violinists Karis, 20, Kiemel, 17, Kolson, 15, and Caleb Lamb, 12. This talented foursome has been performing at weddings since 1999 and enjoy traveling throughout the state of Alabama.

The Lamb Family Violin Ensemble offers a variety of music including sacred arrangements in classical style, new renditions of popular songs, and contemporary works such as "Surely the Presence" by Wolfe and "How Beautiful" by Paris. In addition to violin playing, as a special thank you and tribute to the newlyweds, the family started a tradition of singing an acappella version of the prayer "Grace, Love and Fellowship" (II Corinthians 13:14). The Lambs play at non-religious ceremonies as well, underscoring their talents in classical and traditional wedding music. DuRhonda Lamb, mother and manager of this group says "Many people think violin music is too formal and reserved for a wedding reception, but we often perform very upbeat and exciting music which creates a festive and fun atmosphere." These young people can gravitate from divinely melodious sounds for the ceremony to lively and entertaining melodies for the reception that will keep the party moving.

Planning the music for your wedding should be done with careful thought and consideration. For many people, it's not a wedding if at least one of these tunes doesn't fill the air. We do not remember days...we remember moments.
